OPEN THY DOOR.

Open thy doors, O my soul,
To ocean and sky and plain,
To shelving shore and breakers' roar,
And the mountains that shout again.
Open thy doors, O my soul,
To the scent of the climbing rose,
To the meadow's sweep, and the drowsy sheep,
And the woodland's deep repose.
Wider, wider, my soul,
The winds through the pine tree blow;
'Tis the Word of God that moveth abroad,
And deep to deep will go.
Open thy doors, O my soul,
And the fret and pain of care,
And the futile stress and the pettiness,
Will vanish into air.

A BIG BILL

I was just finishing breakfast when the misunderstanding began.
"The fact is, my dear," I said, "I've a long bill to meet."
"I shall never see another like it," she said, mournfully. "It's only two guineas."
I groaned.
"Two guineas! For a hat?"
"Yes, it isn't dear, really, Fred; not for what it is."
"I really can't imagine. I don't want to grumble, Kit, but you've had $3 over your dress allowance already."
"You need not throw it in my face. If you have, Uncle John never did."
Uncle John is a crusty old bachelor. He brought Kitty up.
"Uncle John is rich. I am not." She turned her back on me and shrugged her shoulders. When I had finished my boots I took hold of her shoulders and turned her around. "You shouldn't have been so silly as to marry a poor man." She held me by the lapels of my coat and smiled. "Perhaps I like you as well as hats," she said. "I'm dreadfully extravagant!" She sighed. "It is such a love!"
"Perhaps next month—?" She shook her head.
"It will be gone then."
There are as good hats in the shops as ever came out of them.
"No doubt it is a joke to you. You would not care if I wore a last year's hat to Paddington to meet Bill to-morrow?"
Bill was her brother.
"If it weren't for that bill," I said doubtfully. "I don't know that they'd press me. Perhaps I might—"
"No, no! I won't lose your train, Fred."
"I'd like you to have it, of course," I told her. She looked at me with her head on one side and a finger on her lip.
I could see that she was thinking of fresh arguments. So I kissed her quickly and fled.
When I arrived at the office I found a telegram saying that her brother William's ship had reached Plymouth a day before time, and that he would get to Paddington about 1:30 p. m. Also, I found a request from one of our best customers that I would call on him at 1:45 o'clock. So I sent a wire to Kitty: "Cannot meet Bill. Due to-day 1:50. Ask Uncle John—Fred."
When I had finished my urgent business I rushed off home. Kitty met me at the door. She was naturally excited.
"Has he come?" I inquired.
"Yes. He's in the drawing room."
I entered hastily, but her brother was not there. Her uncle was. He stood upon the hearth with his back to the fire and his arms under his coat-tails.
"Pleased to see you," he remarked, and frowned at me over his spectacles.
"Well," I said, with some annoyance. "I don't quite—"
"A pretty mess you've made of things!"
"I don't know what right—" I began, but Kitty pressed my arm suddenly. I noticed that she had been crying.

"However," he continued, "I expected something of the sort sooner or later."
"I'm sure it's not Fred's fault," Kitty protested. I was too bewildered for speech.
"A man," said he, "has no business to marry unless he can keep his wife properly."
"Kitty has told you!"
"What else did you expect?"
I shook my arm free from her and paced the room savagely.
"I never thought you'd round on me, Kit," I remonstrated, a trifle unsteadily.
"Who said she was?" snapped her uncle.
"She had no business to speak to you about it."
"You told me to!" she cried.
I raised my eyebrows.
"Nothing was further from my thoughts."
"But—" she began. Uncle John stopped her with a wave of his hand.
"Anyhow, Kitty has told me. Of course, I cannot let her want. I have written a cheque for the amount, but—"
"She shall not touch it!" I vowed ferociously.
"You are an insolent—idiot!" roared her uncle.
"Idiot or not," I thundered, "I will stand no interference between my wife and me. If Kitty is not satisfied with what I can do for her she can't. Kitty gave such a violent sob that I had to put my arm around her.
"As for the hat," I told her huskily, "I made up my mind this morning that you should have it."
"Oh!" she whined. "As if that mattered!"
"If it doesn't matter, why did you speak about it to your uncle?"

"IT ISN'T DEAR, REALLY."

She looked up at me with her eyes swimming.
"Of course I didn't!"
I stared at them both.
"Then," I inquired, "whatever are you talking about?"
At that moment there was a bang at the front door, and we heard Brother Bill's big voice.
"Then her brother rushed in like a breath of fresh air. He is a huge, good-natured, breezy fellow.
"Hulloa, little Kit. Prettier than ever!" He hugged her.
"Why, uncle, you get younger every day!" Uncle John grunted a mollified grunt.
"Fred, you old boulder, why didn't you meet me? I suppose you got my wire saying I was due at 1:50 o'clock?"
"Yes, old man. I couldn't get off so I wired Kit. I thought she'd get her uncle to bring her; but—" I looked at her. She looked at Uncle John. Uncle John looked at me. Brother Bill looked at all of us in wonder.
After we had stared at one another for a few minutes Uncle John burst into an extraordinary roar of laughter. I had never heard him laugh before. Kitty always said he did so biennially.
She began laughing and crying together, till Bill and I shook her to stave off hysterics.
"Think," I confided to him, "they've both taken leave of their senses this afternoon."
Uncle John gave another yell. Then he picked up a telegram from the octagonal table.

"Read this, William," he commanded. This was my telegram, as delivered.
"Cannot meet bill due to-day one hundred and fifty. Ask Uncle John—Fred."
"What!" I cried. "You thought I wanted to borrow the money!"
Uncle John took a pinch of snuff very deliberately.
"It seems," he confessed, "that I misjudged you."
"I misjudged you, too, sir," I said slowly. "Only I think you might have asked particulars before—"
"Before he wrote us a check," suggested Kitty, pulling it out of her pocket and squeezing my arm appealingly.
"It was very good of you, sir," I confessed gratefully. He blew his nose furiously. Then he held out his hand and I shook it.
"We shall understand one another better in future, my boy."
Kitty laughed in her quick way, and patted her brother's arm.
"Thanks—to our big Bill!"—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

MERE MAN OUTBID BY WOMAN.

Los Angeles Widow Wins Farm from Wyoming Man at Auction.
Outbid by a woman. This was the experience of Edward B. Milner from the plains of Wyoming, in the contest for Yuma farm unit 23, which was auctioned at the United States land office, says the Los Angeles Express.
Mrs. Mary E. Delo, widow, residing in this city, was the woman who refused to be outdone by a mere man.
The price paid was $201.
The land for which Mrs. Delo and Mr. Milner were bidding was a farm unit which went by default, the successful applicant in the drawing having failed to make the first payment within the ten-day period.
When Receiver Robinson offered this strip of land at auction a contest for the farm was begun.
It did not require the perception of a sage to see that the land was wanted by both Mr. Milner and Mrs. Delo. As quickly as one bid, the price was raised by the other contestant for the farm. Rapidly the price was bid up to $100, and then increased steadily until it had soared to $200. At this figure, a friend of Milner persuaded him to withdraw from the bidding, and no person seemed willing to raise the price of $201 bid by Mrs. Delo.
Receiver Robinson declared that Mrs. Delo had purchased the first right to file an entry on farm unit G 33 of the Yuma land project for $201. In addition to this amount, it will be necessary for Mrs. Delo to pay the regular government price of $65 an acre.
Defeated in this quarter, but determined to have a Yuma farm, Mr. Milner studied the blue print showing the location of the various units, and selected a section which had been allowed to go by default by the original applicant, and filed an entry on it without paying any money except the regulation price of $65 an acre.
It was farm unit C 33, and Mrs. Delo and Mr. Milner will be near neighbors.

WHEN THE HOUSE FEELS BARE.

Take Inventory of Furnishings and You Will Find It Crowded.

If any one has an uncomfortable feeling that one's apartment is inadequately furnished and that it is incumbent upon one to stretch a point and buy a few enhancing objects, spend an evening or two contemplating the subletting of your place furnished. At first you blush to expose its bareness and try to recall the price of the last reading lamp you liked, the New York Evening Sun says; then, being of a practical mind, you make an inventory, and never was an apartment so changed by so simple and inexpensive a method before. The place is not bare; it is crowded. You have written until your pen staggers and you are being momentarily reminded of things you have neglected to put down. Out of kindness to your possible tenant you could not for a moment think of buying another thing.

It is not fair to ask anyone to account for so much. You are surprised that you, who have always given your hearty support to simplicity in decoration, almost Japanese blankness should have permitted your place to become so cluttered, though with uncommonly good things. That tiresome bowl which you have for years been offering every opportunity to smash itself reads very well as "One large blue crockery vase, uncracked." And "One small table, spindle legged, good condition," is a most noncommittal item. It describes the table in all honesty, yet says nothing regarding its character, which you, to your sorrow, know as a morose of intentional tipplings, changes of location which always take place while you are away from home, and only disclose them selves while you grope for matches, as well as other minor failings that will be kept a secret between the table and yourself. On the whole, there is nothing like an inventory to stop expenditures and make one contented with one's lot.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

Bronchitis is the name given to any inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes. In a fairly healthy adult an attack of acute bronchitis is not a very terrifying thing, although it is most distressing and disagreeable.

It is as if an unusually severe cold and cough instead of combining itself to the head and throat, wandered on down the chest. The irritation of the tubes results in a constant cough and sense of breathlessness. The temperature rises, the patient feels sick, the more so that the incessant coughing does not result in the throwing off of any secretion to speak of.

In a day or two the inflammation in the tubes subsides, the temperature goes down, there is less and less sense of oppression, and the secretion gradually becomes freer. From this point there is gradual recovery, as from an ordinary bad cold.

On the other hand, in the very old or the very young, or with those whose powers of resistance are lessened from any cause whatever, bronchitis is a dangerous disease. It has a tendency to run from the acute into the chronic form, in which the sufferer may be perfectly well during the summer months, or while in a warm climate, but at the least chill or exposure must expect and will get his inevitable attack of bronchitis with symptoms persisting until the return of warm weather.

The moral of this is that it is most essential to give proper treatment during the acute stage. The need of watchful care during a bronchial attack will be the more appreciated when it is understood that such an attack may be the beginning, sign and warning of a tuberculous trouble; and furthermore, that whooping cough and measles sometimes begin that way.

In any case, whether the attack be simple bronchitis or a warning of some other trouble, the first rule should be, "straight to bed." In fact, this good old-fashioned rule at the outset of any type of so-called "cold" cannot be bettered.

A wise secondary rule is to stay in bed till the temperature has been normal for a day or two. If this were observed, relapses would be fewer and convalescences shortened.

Never mind how mild the trouble promises to be, a physician should be at once summoned, not only because he only is competent to recognize danger signals, but also because there are many alleviations in his power of the numerous painful and distressing symptoms of this disorder.—Youth's Companion.

HYATT AS A POLITICIAN

Our esteemed contemporary published in the town of San Francisco, the Call, points out that Mr. Hyatt, the state superintendent of schools, is not a politician because he has advocated teaching the children to conserve the natural resources of the country, a doctrine that of necessity is not popular with the class who would exploit them, and it adds:

The Call congratulates Mr. Hyatt that he has the courage to speaking with clear voice on topics that may seem to be a little off his beat and because he is able to put aside the timorous, time-serving methods of the opportunist politician with his ear to the ground. His alarms and exhortations will not, we hope, prove politically disastrous to himself.

The Union joins with the Call in its congratulations. The further the schools of the state are kept from active politics the better.

One of the dangerous facts connected with the state and leading universities has been that those who give money to them always want their theories taught in them. Universities should have no partisan theories, nor should the minor schools. When the theories are of a possible partisan character, but broad questions, such as the conservation of the public resources, are subjects that are well worthy the attention of young students. It was on that point that Superintendent Hyatt was quoted as saying:

"During the last year I have become possessed by the idea that the largest, the most truly patriotic, the most vitally important movement in this nation today is the one looking to the conservation of natural resources.

I have become possessed by the idea, too, that it is highly important for the school people of this state to join the movement, for them to grasp its significance, appreciate its magnitude, take hold of it strongly and intelligently. Such a movement as this must fall unless it can be projected into the future. It can only be projected into the future through the children of the nation.

Superintendent Hyatt has been different from his predecessors, but the differences have all been along the line of improvement.

Mr. C. R. Blake, health commissioner, handed us a communication last week too late for publication.

The ladies auxiliary of the engineers will give a grand ball at East Shore Park on June 24th. The ladies are planning on giving the public a good time. Extensive decorations will greet the eye, while refreshments of all kinds will greet the palate. "Always Ready Luncher."

Last year a circular originated in the east, set forth methods of ridding communities of fly pests. This circular gave a brief history of how to fight flies and destroy the eggs which were deposited in the offal of stables. Dr. C. R. Blake, health commissioner, is giving this circular out now for publication. The Terminal published this last year.

SANTA FE MUST WIDEN VIADUCT

The Santa Fe railroad must widen the roadway on road No. 13, where that thoroughfare crosses under the viaduct of the Oakland branch. Such is the edict of the board of supervisors of Contra Costa county. The decision was arrived at last Monday at the regular meeting held in Martinez and condemnation proceedings will be instituted against the company to compel it to accede to the wishes of the supervisors unless, indeed, it decides to do the work before such proceedings can be started.

John Nicholl, manager of the John Nicholl Land company, is the direct cause of the action of the supervisors. For many moons Mr. Nicholl, who has extensive holdings along road 13, has been endeavoring to have the street widened into a broad, well improved thoroughfare, but the viaduct of the Oakland branch of the Santa Fe, which permits of but a forty-foot roadway has prevented such action. Mr. Nicholl owns a tract of an acre of land which he has just this side of the Pullman shops site and he fenced up the portion of this land which runs into the county road compelling the county to use but twenty feet for a roadway. He did this to compel the county to bring pressure on the Santa Fe to widen the span of the viaduct so that the street can be made into what he considers it should be.

BEAR FLAG DAY ON TUESDAY

Native Sons Will Distribute One Hundred Thousand Emblems

The sixty-fourth anniversary of the raising of the original Bear Flag at Sonoma will occur Tuesday, June 14th, and in honor of the event and as a preliminary gun for the coming celebration of Admission Day in San Francisco next September, the occasion will be celebrated as "Bear Flag Day" all over the State by the distribution of one hundred thousand silk flags. These souvenirs have been sent to every Parlor of Native Sons and Daughters in California and the sum realized from their sale, at ten cents each, will be devoted to the big fund being raised by the Order for the entertainment of the hundreds of thousands of visitors expected in the Exposition City during the decennial festival.

The committees in charge are confident that the coming celebration will eclipse the Portola Carnival of last year in every particular, the intention being to decorate the city better than ever before, even at the time of the Knights Templar Conclave in 1904.

OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF THE CALIFORNIA PRESS ASSOCIATION ENJOYING THE ANNUAL OUTING

The California Press Association, Chamber of Commerce, the president of the Sacramento Valley Development association, the president of the California Press Association and others will make addresses.

Automobile Trip
Tomorrow morning the Chamber of Commerce will take the party around Sacramento city and vicinity in automobiles. It is planned to take the 21 mile run to Folsom and return. After a luncheon at the Hotel Sacramento the party will proceed on its up through the grand Sierras to the charming Lake Tahoe.

At Lake Tahoe
At Tahoe the time will be spent in rest, recreation, fishing, hunting, bowling, dancing, snow bailing and other events. The editors will have the royal good time that they have on all of their excursions. One evening will be devoted to a business and literary program. On next Monday an excursion on the lake has been planned which will take up the whole day. The return will be made on next Thursday. Friend W. Richardson, the president of the association has charge of the excursion and has perfected all of the arrangements.

Reception at Sacramento
The party will arrive at Sacramento city at 6 o'clock this evening where it will be met by the officers of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and shown the courtesies of the city. The editors will be at once escorted to the beautiful new Hotel Sacramento where a sumptuous dinner will be served and where the night will be spent.

A reception will be held this evening on the roof garden of the hotel Sacramento, and the president of the

BERNDT SHOULDERS HIS GUN
Superintendent Berndt is greatly missed these days. Mr. Berndt has charge of all the departments and requires great skill to fill Mr. Berndt's place at the center of the greatest wine industry in the world, with an output of thousands of dollars every month. Superintendent Berndt working hard all hours and overtime, found it necessary to take a much needed rest.

So last Saturday morning Superintendent Berndt with his family started in a wagon loaded with a camping outfit for the wilds of the Mendocino woods, where he will enjoy fishing in the coast streams, and will rest long enough between times to enjoy eating some of his shoot or catch. By this time his friends think he can easily distinguish the difference between a barrel of wine from the California Wine Association and a big California buck or a big California bear. Mrs. Berndt who has been indisposed needs the outing also as much as her husband.

The Berndts will be gone several weeks and their friends wish them a blended good time.

Rheumatism

Is A Constitutional Disease. It manifests itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles, but it cannot be cured by local applications.

It requires constitutional treatment, and the best is a course of the great blood purifying and tonic medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

which corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the system.

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Saratobars.

It is a statement of the National Employment Exchange as to labor conditions in one field:

"The skilled men and the laborers are all getting work. We can't supply the demand for laborers or mechanics."

Here is a statement from the same authority as to conditions in another field:

"Clerk labor is a drug on the market. There are simply not enough jobs to go around."

Evil days are indeed on the clerk, the New York Globe says. Not only do his wages—"salary" he calls it—tend to stay down while the cost of living increases, but employment is precarious. Great are the material sacrifices that must be made by a young man who has aversion to hard work, who wants to be "genteel," who insists on employment permitting the wearing of cuffs and a collar. False pride is an expensive luxury, and it is being hampered out of many soft heads.

It is the worker, with a trained intelligence directing a skilled hand, that the world needs and wants, and needing him and wanting him, bids for his services. The average income of the good mechanic is now well up to that of the average doctor or lawyer. The tariff which is suffering keenly. Under the pressure of present economic tendencies it is likely to suffer more and more until there is a recasting of educational methods and a final suppression of the idea that mechanical labor lacks dignity.

The Influence of Color. The influence of color upon the complexion and general tone of the toilet is very striking. Blondes should avoid the lighter shades of blue, which are apt to give an ashy hue to the complexion. The darker shades of blue may be worn more recklessly by blondes than the lighter shades, because throwing out the complexion in high relief on an accommodating background, and the darker and more velvety the shades the finer the effect. Brunettes cannot wear blue becomingly, because this shade, when shadowed by a yellow skin, enters into a composition of green, and the tawny complexion is increased. The florid complexion can risk the wearing of blue. Green is a dangerous color for brunettes, but adapted to the fair. A pale brunette can effectively wear red—it heightens the effect of a brunette beauty. It is stated by a reliable authority that "crimson should be charily indulged in by the brunette, but crimson may be worn with safety by the blonde. Yellow is highly becoming to the pale brunette, and especially to the blonde. Yellow grows paler and softer in an artificial than in a natural light; it enters into the olive shade of the brunet skin with a softening effect, giving it a rich, creamy tint that becomes beautiful in contrast with brilliant dark eyes and rich dark hair. The artists long ago discovered what milliners are slow to perceive, and that is that yellow clears everything—Curlous Facts.

Onomatopoeia. One of the charms of music is that the musically uneducated person does not have to "understand" it. With "imitative" music, however, the case is quite different, and every passage has either an obvious or a thinly concealed meaning. Occasionally it is hard to decipher certain unusual notes, as the following story from Pilegenda Blaetter indicates:

The composer had just played his last piece to his friend, the critic.

"Very nice, indeed," said the critic. "But what is that passage which makes the cold chills run down the back?"

"Oh," returned the composer, "that is where the wanderer has the hotel bill brought to him."

Somewhat Suspicious. "Why do you refuse me an interview, Mr. Grotto? I only wanted to ask you how you earned your first $1,000."

"Excuse me, young man. I thought you wanted to know how I got my last million."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Unnecessary Substructure. If the cherry didn't half sole the cherry pie at all it would be better.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Separating an easy mark from his money is nothing to boast of.

Plenty of Land. There is no reason to fear a scarcity of farming land in the United States, merely because the opening of public reservations has ceased, according to the Farmer's Union. California could support a population of 10,000,000. The south invites more intensive farming, as does the middle west, while the agricultural opportunities of New England have recently come into prominence. There are many districts in the east capable of great development under more scientific agricultural methods. One need is a more wide distribution of immigrants of rural habits and antecedents.

Would be Taken Care Of. "I fear I am not worthy of you." "Never mind about that," responded the young lady with the square jaw. "Between mother and myself, I imagine we can effect the necessary improvements."

On Exception. She (protestingly)—That's just like you men. A man never gets into trouble without dragging some woman in with him.

He—Oh, I don't know. How about Jonah in the whale?—Boston Transcript.

A Mena Retort. Bertha—I'm sorry you asked me to marry you. It pains me to refuse. Will (cheerfully)—Oh, don't worry! Perhaps you know best what I'm saying.

Immigrants of Value

The Best Settlers in Canada Are Americans from Western States. Col. John H. Conrad, who has a town in Alaska named after him, Conrad City, and has a ranch of many thousand acres in the Saskatchewan region in Canada, says that settlers are pouring into that country. Col. Conrad's ranch is on the Canadian Pacific Railway, some 700 miles northwest of Duluth, and on it he raises cattle and wheat. "The best settlers up States," said the colonel recently, "Why do they go up there? Well, only a few years ago the Territories had free land. Now they haven't, because the government scooped up all there was left and put it into reservations. Many of the farmers in the West got their start by homesteading, and they have become so rich that they in the able to send their sons over into Canada, where land is cheap."

An astonishing thing I saw up there once was the arrival of a trainload of American emigrants, who brought on the same train their horses and wagons and a steam plough. They arrived in the morning, got their tent pitched and the train unloaded, and that afternoon the steam plough was working. One immigrant like that has been an average of 150,000 of them a year coming into the country in the last five years. As soon as they get there they become Canadians.

"The development that is going on in that part of Canada is beyond belief. It is the greatest boom that any country ever had and it will continue many years. Why, it is no unusual thing for a farmer to make enough money out of his first year's crop to pay for his whole farm and give him a handsome margin. You can get government land for $125 an acre, and you can get the other land you want for from $5 to $10 an acre. Then lumber mills and flour mills are going up in every direction."

"What is helping the country up there is the tremendous railroad building that is going on. It is the richest farming country in the world and it abounds in game."

Alaska is the richest mining country in the world, and if the national government would only assist the railroad building it would soon get its money back a hundredfold." Col. Conrad continued. "There is a disposition in politics to cry 'wolf' when Alaska is mentioned, but the pioneers who have been putting their time and money into the development of the country should be encouraged. I have helped for 40-odd years to develop various western states, and I know that the government rights in Alaska are much better protected than they were out west. There is untold wealth in Alaska simply awaiting development, and the latter is proceeding a vast deal more slowly than if we had roads up there."

Rather Cold. It is a cold climate in which a flame cannot keep itself warm. One of the scientists attached to the Peary expedition has personally told of the effect of intense cold on a wax candle that he tried to burn.

The temperature of 35 degrees below zero, and its effects were felt not only by the men of the expedition, but even by the candle in question. It gave forth no cheery light such as might have been expected from it in other circumstances, and when it came to be examined it was found that the flame had all it could do to keep itself warm.

The air was so cold that the flame was not powerful enough to melt all the wax of the candle, but was compelled to eat its way down, leaving a skeleton structure of wax in the form of a hollow cylinder. Inside this cylinder the wick burned with a tongue of yellow fire, and here and there the heat was sufficient to perforate the outer covering and leave holes of odd shapes which turned the cylinder into a tube of lacelike wax, through the holes in which the light shone with a strange, weird beauty.

Game in Germany. Germany is a country of Nimrod. There are, we learn, 600,000 sportsmen, which means one gun for every 100 people. Each year fall to the gun, on an average, 400,000 hares, 4,000,000 partridges, 2,000,000 thrushes, 500,000 rabbits, 190,000 deer, 145,000 pheasants, 40,000 wild ducks, 25,000 peacocks, 22,500 deer, 15,000 quails, 13,500 bucks, 14,000 wild boars and 1,300 bustards. In weight this "bag" represents 25,000,000 kilograms, a kilogramme being 2 1/2 pounds. The monetary value of 32,000,000 francs, or about $6,200,000. The sum received for licenses to shoot is 7,500,000 francs, or $1,500,000.

Plenty of Land. There is no reason to fear a scarcity of farming land in the United States, merely because the opening of public reservations has ceased, according to the Farmer's Union. California could support a population of 10,000,000. The south invites more intensive farming, as does the middle west, while the agricultural opportunities of New England have recently come into prominence. There are many districts in the east capable of great development under more scientific agricultural methods. One need is a more wide distribution of immigrants of rural habits and antecedents.

Would be Taken Care Of. "I fear I am not worthy of you." "Never mind about that," responded the young lady with the square jaw. "Between mother and myself, I imagine we can effect the necessary improvements."

On Exception. She (protestingly)—That's just like you men. A man never gets into trouble without dragging some woman in with him.

He—Oh, I don't know. How about Jonah in the whale?—Boston Transcript.

A Mena Retort. Bertha—I'm sorry you asked me to marry you. It pains me to refuse. Will (cheerfully)—Oh, don't worry! Perhaps you know best what I'm saying.

A Hair Dressing

If you wish a high-class hair dressing, we are sure Ayer's Hair Vigor, now improved formula, will greatly please you. It keeps the hair soft and smooth, makes it look rich and luxuriant, prevents splitting at the ends. And it keeps the scalp free from dandruff.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Blow it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

At the same time the new Ayer's Hair Vigor is a strong hair tonic, promoting the growth of the hair, keeping all the tissues of the hair and scalp in a healthy condition. The hair stops falling, dandruff disappears. A splendid dressing.

Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Circular Nuisance. The woman intercepted the postman as he was about to stuff a thick wall of circulars into her mail box and relieved him of them. "I wish," she said, "you would be allowed to use your discretion about such mail matter and to dump it into the refuse can instead of into my box, or could even omit ringing my bell when you have delivered no other mail than such stuff as this. It makes me a great deal of trouble and I never look at it. Then the janitor and the paper man simply have to remove it. How it would lighten your load if you did not have to carry it around!"

"Indeed it would! I also wish we did not have to handle it. We not only have a great burden in delivering it, but when we cannot find the person to whom it is addressed we have still more trouble, for we have to spend a great deal of time looking up addresses and trying to trace the consignees. We don't mind it in the case of first class mail, but to spend hours trying to find the owner of a circular seems to us like false economy. However, I suppose the postmaster general knows his business. I don't have to fill his job—at present. All I have to do is what I'm told. Good morning!"

HERE IS RELIEF FOR WOMEN. You have pain in the back, urinary, bladder or kidney trouble, and want a certain, pleasant, reliable remedy. It is a safe and never-failing remedy. It is called "MOTHER'S FRIEND." Address: The Mother's Friend Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Standardizing His Gratitude. Warehouse Long—What'd you say of Rockefeller wuz to give ya five million dollars?

Tuftold Knutt—Thanks!—Chicago Tribune.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Was Strong. She (as they dance)—I'm afraid I'm tiring you rather.

He—Oh, not at all. I used to be attendant in the elephant house at the zoo.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

SAVE 1/2 YOUR GAS, KEROSENE OR GASOLINE and keep cool. The Spengler Cooler and Heat Distributor confines the heat of your burner and distributes it to three openings enabling you to cook three articles or heat four at the same time over one flame, resulting in great economy and a cool kitchen. It positively prevents burning food and utensils and pays for itself in a few days. Price $12.50 delivered. Territory for capable agents, a big seller. Franklin C. Smith Co., Monmouth Bldg., San Francisco.

On the Safe Side. "The Bible says, 'Take no thought for the future.'"

"That's all right in theory, but I always buy a return ticket when I go to the races."—Houston Post.

It appeals to particular people because it is particularly good: Old Glen Edge Whiskey, rye or bourbon.

Hard to Swallow. "Yes, my lad," the health crank was remarking, "people should be going to take exercise. I once took a walk of fifty miles on nothing but a few soft boiled eggs."

"Gee!" said the boy. "What lookin' feet you must have had when you got there!"

FOR SALE—Land in Sonoma County. Stock, dairy, fruit and poultry farms, all sizes and prices. No better land, never failing water, no malaria. Call or write: Santa Rosa Realty Co., 632 Montgomery St., San Francisco or Elko Bldg., Santa Rosa, Cal.

Preference for the Classical. "Can openers" said the salesgirl. "Yes, ma'am; what kind?"

"Any good kind will do," answered Mrs. Lapelling. "I've heard my nephew Bertram speak of the arma virumque can opener. I'll look at one of those, if you please."

The average man may feel like rejoicing when his wife has such a cold that she is unable to speak above a whisper.

THE KEYSTONE TO HEALTH IS HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

The fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has helped thousands of sickly people back to health during the past 36 years should convince you that it is the medicine you need for Indigestion and Stomach Ills.
